R&T Postgraduate Seminar

23 March 2011 • 10am – 1pm • Simon 2A

Calling all R&T Postgraduates!

You are warmly invited to join us for this semester's first Religions & Theology Postgraduate Seminar. We will begin promptly at 10am with a coffee and croissant reception and will then hear three rousing papers from current postgraduate students with plenty of time for questions. Afterward you are invited to join us for lunch (at your own cost) down the road at Umami. In order to make appropriate arrangements for catering we would be grateful if you could confirm your attendance at the seminar and whether you will be joining us for lunch by March 11th at the latest.

To whet your appetite, this time we will have papers presented by:

Richard Benda, "The Abyss between Us: Applying Socrates' concept of Friendship to the Politics of Reconciliation"

Kimberly Slack, "Hebrews or Inferior Christians?: Concepts of Transformation and the Hierarchy of Conversion in the Gospel of Philip"

Ruth Hadley, "What Happens to Tolerance when Multiculturalism has 'Failed'?"

If you are interested in presenting a paper at a future seminar, with the next one being tentatively scheduled for 1 June 2011, please be in touch with either Ruth or Kyle. Thank you and we hope to see you all there!

For further information and/or to confirm your attendance please contact Ruth Hadley (ruth.hadley@postgrad.manchester.ac.uk) or Kyle Gingerich Hiebert (kyle.gingerichhiebert@postgrad.manchester.ac.uk).
